

Dear New York City Parks Department,

I fully support the removal of the statue of Dr. J. Marion Sims from its current location on Fifth Avenue and 103rd Street. J. Marion Sims is a monster and a disgusting, shameful figure in the horrifying legacy of America's past. On the Wikipedia page of this sadistic, white supremacist monster, it says "he has been described as "a prime example of progress in the medical profession made at the expense of a vulnerable population"

When we reduce the disgusting horror of what a sadistic white supremacist monster (from now on referred to as "it" because IT does not deserve to be given a human pronoun) did in history in order to give primacy to the "progress in the medical profession", when we allow a statue of said monster to continue to stand when affected communities are calling for its removal, we erase the actual human beings who were tortured, murdered, and brutalized at ITs hands!

Let's say NO white supremacy and stop perpetuating disgusting white supremacist discourse in our history!

I fully support the removal of the statue of J. Marion Sims from from its current location on Fifth Avenue and 103rd Street.

Thank you!

With urgency,
